

As London bombs expose futility of Major's appeasement policy, we say...

EXTERMINATE I.R.A. NOW!

WE KNEW IT WOULD HAPPEN! John Major's policy of appeasement towards the terrorists of the IRA — seductively dressed up as a 'peace plan' — would end in blood and tears. The IRA and its ally Sinn Fein will never be satisfied with anything less than the full sell-out of Northern Ireland to the Irish Republic. Once they thought that the timetable for this wasn't working fast enough, they returned to bombing and killing. And so it was proved in London last month when two bombs rocked the City.

The Government's much vaunted 'peace process' was an absurdity from the word go. It's all very well different groups of people getting round a table to negotiate — providing there's something there that's negotiable. But what is negotiable about Northern Ireland? Either it stays British or it doesn't — there is no middle way.

If Northern Ireland does not stay British but joins the Republic, that's a sell-out — a surrender. We would be giving in to the IRA and rewarding its campaign of murder with victory. If this ever happens it will be the most shameful moment in Britain's history.

Far from thwarting the men of violence by sitting down with republicans at the negotiating table, Major & Co.

did exactly as they wanted. For the IRA and its supporters (just 4 per cent of the people), their aim has always been to take Northern Ireland out of the United Kingdom and annex it to the Irish Republic. Violence and 'peace talks' have only been alternative means to this end.

Govt. loss of nerve

By grabbing at the 'peace process' the Government showed the IRA that its terror was winning and that Britain would let Ulster go.

How else could this 'peace process' be interpreted?

If, on the other hand, Northern Ireland is to stay British there is nothing whatsoever to offer Gerry Adams and his cohorts. So whatever was the point?

The whole of this so-called 'peace process' has been a despicable 'con' against the people of Northern Ireland, building up hopes of peace when there never has been the slightest possibility of peace through negotiation — only a temporary cessation of the violence which has allowed the spokesmen for terrorism to air their views while permitting the IRA to rebuild its organisation, rearm, retrain and recruit new activists — a welcome 'breather' for the murderers.

After the London bombings last month, John Major came on TV and told the nation that they would not deflect the Government from its 'peace process'. In the game of poker that Major was playing, he believed he could scare IRA/Sinn Fein back into the talks on his terms. But the IRA held firm and as usual, it was Major who caved in.

Purpose of bombing

The bombs in London were never intended to deflect the Government from the 'peace process'; they were just a bit more pressure on it to continue that process — a pressure to which Major has bowed. Before the bombs, Major demanded that the IRA make concessions before all-party peace talks. Now, after the bombs, Sinn Fein can join the talks just so long as the IRA call another ceasefire! The Government's craven cowardice is plain for all to see. The IRA has bombed Major into concessions.

'Peace talks' are merely an evasion of Government's real responsibility.

It is to prosecute the war against the terrorists until they are finally and utterly destroyed. That, and that alone, is the only way to a true lasting peace.

We say no more pussy-footing and no more appeasement. We say wipe out the terrorists with the same ruthlessness they have showed when murdering innocent people for the past 27 years.

It's the only way!

No.165 MARCH 1996

Editor: John Morse

THE HEALTH SERVICE: TIME WE GOT OUR PRIORITIES RIGHT!

A 10-YEAR-OLD Stockport boy, Nicholas Geldard, died recently because there was no bed at his local hospital for him to receive the treatment he needed. He was taken to Leeds — the only place within 60 miles where there was such a bed. In the journey across the Pennines in heavy snow and fog, he died in the ambulance before he could reach his destination.

This case has been just one of many of its kind. When drugs victim Leah Betts died, her liver was available for a transplant. A team in Cambridge had a would-be recipient but nowhere to treat him. Such was the shortage of intensive care beds in Britain that the liver was sent to Spain!

These are scandals that beggar description: a national disgrace that cries out for urgent remedy.

No doubt, poor management is partly to blame. But much worse is the fact that the NHS is underfunded and under-resourced. Not only is there not enough money but what money there is is often allocated according to a quite ridiculous order of priorities.

For instance, it was revealed recently that the Government is spending £250 million a year on combating AIDS.

Only an estimated 6,500 people in Britain have the virus, whereas cancer sufferers run into the millions.

Yet, incredibly, spending on cancer research each year by the NHS, charities and drug companies combined is a mere £245 million.

Why this contrast? It surely must be because AIDS-sufferers are supported by a certain lobby that wields an awful lot of political clout!

But that's not all. In addition to the huge funds that are available to look after sexual perverts while normal people get neglected, there is the massive bonanza that is dished out every year to the Third World.

Billions in the way of public funds go abroad to relieve famine and provide medical services to people in Africa and Asia — because the countries they inhabit are too incompetent to develop to our standards and therefore must — for eternity, it seems — be propped up by us.

At the same time, British doctors and nurses, who are urgently needed here, are sent out to these remote lands — all in the name of a misplaced 'humanitarianism' which seems to regard the needs of Hottentots and Bushmen as more important than those of the British people here at home.

We say it's time to stop this nonsense and get our priorities right. Let the queers and the Third Worlders support their own, and let them get off our backs!

COLLAPSING LAW AND ORDER IN BRITAIN

For seventeen years, Tory party Home Secretaries have received cheers from their supporters for their speeches of 'getting tough with crime'. The cheers have been for a lot of hot air. Ever since Thatcher took office in 1979, we've been told that they've been 'winning the war against crime'. Not long ago, John Major was heard bragging that his government had produced "the biggest fall in crime for more than 40 years." This series of lies can only be swallowed by the mentally crippled. As with so many other government 'success' stories, it is a claim based on fiddling the figures, rather like the unemployment figure which has been 'fixed' thirty-eight times since 1979 to make it look better.

The truth is that there were two and a half million offences recorded in 1980. In 1994 after fifteen years of Tory 'success' the figure has risen to five million. At the same time, the number of offenders prosecuted has stayed the same at half a million. Worse still, the conviction rate for serious offences has actually gone down.

The duplicity of the government is in the fiddling of its figures — the so-called 'clear-up rate'. Only a minute percentage of the clear-up rate is accounted for by convictions. The rest are a fiddle; crimes are cleared up if: people prosecuted are acquitted, if the offender dies before being charged, if witnesses disappear, if old lags already in prison admit to outstanding crimes that won't be taken any further, and if either the police or the Crown Prosecution Service 'know' who did it but decide to take no further action. This means that of all the rape cases for 1994 for example, three quarters are counted as cleared-up while only 9 per cent led to convictions.

The falling conviction rate means that, taking rape again for example. While the level of offences have risen more than four-fold from 1,200 in 1980 to over 5,000 in 1994, the number of convictions has actually gone down. Because whereas 48 per cent of rapists were convicted in 1980, in 1994 that proportion has gone down to just 9 per cent. Similarly, burglary convictions have fallen by two thirds; robbery convictions are also down by two thirds; assault convictions down by three quarters, arson convictions down by over half and attempted murder convictions also down by over half. All at a time when crime figures have doubled! What this means is that crime is rocketing up and more and more people are getting away with it — which is what ordinary people have suspected all along.

Crime in Britain today is out of control. City analysts and the police foresee large swathes of Britain's cities going under a tidal wave of crime. Every new police station being built in London is based on an impregnable fortress design.

David Phillips, Chief Constable of Kent had it about right when he said that "our justice system has been Americanised, permeated with concern for criminal civil rights. We have produced a system which is so concerned with protecting criminals, it works against the notion of justice."

Today's Britain is, in some parts of the country, an absolute nightmare. There are some who think that it doesn't affect them. They are wrong. Time will tell and the nightmare will follow everyone whether in town, city or shire. The Tories cannot help, neither can Labour. Only one party has got what it takes — the British National Party.

OUR LAND, OUR PEOPLE, OUR FUTURE THE VISION WE HAVE FOR BRITAIN

At long last the British people are beginning to wake up to the fact that there is a real alternative to the old political parties and the politicians who have presided over the decline of our once great land.

No longer do we have to sit back and watch while the traitors and incompetents in Parliament throw away our and our children's future and condemn the British people to live in a multi-racial nightmare, where our past is defamed and our future is devoid of hope.

A new political force is rising in Britain, a force that can unite the British people and bring about real political, economic, and social change; it is a force which represents hope and life for our own people, a force which faces the hatred and lies of the political establishment and mass media because they know that one day we will end

Our Britain will be a clean Britain with concern for the environment. A Britain with no more racial conflict and vastly reduced crime. A nation where our children can grow up in peace and security. A Britain where the dynamic of Nationalism will ensure jobs and prosperity.

their treason. That force is the British National Party — dedicated to the rebirth of Britain and the British people.

Britain doesn't have to sink into the dustbin of history; it doesn't have to be an industrial wasteland; it doesn't have to be divided by conflict; crime, and anarchy; it doesn't have to be a country where white children have no future.

Britain could be free, united, and prosperous. It could be a great place to live, a great place to work, a great place in which to raise a family.

We have the resources, we have the intelligence, we have the skills. All we need is the driving force to make things start to work. That force is present in all of us, but it can only be released by Nationalism. Nationalism is the only force which can unite our people and get things done. It is the spirit of action.

ANOTHER RACE MURDER BOY MURDERED FOR BEING WHITE

In a sickening addition to the number of whites killed in racially motivated murders, 16-year-old Danny Westmacott, a white student was stabbed to death in a north London burger bar by three black youths. His 'crime' was to have looked at a pretty black girl. An argument started with a black male who was with two black girls. All of them went outside and the black male and Danny scuffled and traded punches with no serious injuries to either side. Danny and a friend then went back into the burger bar — McDonalds in Edmonton — and sat down to resume their meal. Ten minutes later, three different black youths walked in and struck Danny and his friend with lucozade bottles. As Danny fell to the floor under nightmare inflicted upon our society.

the impact of the blows, the ringleader produced a long bladed knife and stabbed Danny in the back as he lay on the floor. Poor Danny stood no chance and died a short time later. The reality of Britain's multi-racial disaster has struck a blow at another family whose parents have lost a son and whose other son has lost a brother. The champions of multi-racialism have got a lot to answer for. Danny's name joins a long list of others: Richard Everett, Catherine Ayling, Terry May, Paul Carter, Michael Doohar, Philip Gosling, Gary Willmer and many others forgotten by the race relations industry and establishment politicians because they don't count — they were only white.

INTERNET GIVES WEISENTHAL THE BUMS RUSH!

Ever since its inception, the Internet has been a haven of both freedom of expression and for the free dissemination of ideas. The spirit of freedom on the Internet is an example of freedom to bigots everywhere. Readers will know that the BNP is on the Internet and has one of the most articulate, sensible home pages of any British political party on the net today. Recently, the notorious Simon Weisenthal Centre demanded that Internet providers cease to carry messages that they objected to. In a positive response, Community ConneXion was first out of the stocks to tell the odious would-be gags of free speech where to get off, stating that it "considers it our civic duty to provide Internet access, services and privacy to any individual or group, no matter what their political or social agenda." Other service providers are also unlikely to accede to the centre's outrageous demands to ban free speech. Weisenthal's other problems at the moment include other Jews calling him a "tragic figure", "incompetent" and "unprofessional." Mainly it seems, because they all covet the money that demanding bans on free speech seems to command! Showing just how prevalent the 'gag free speech' business is, in Canada Ernst Zundel the patriotic free-thinker who has in the past been gagged by Canadian courts at the behest of 'no free speech' bigots has just had the last laugh over the German variety of 'no free speech' zealot since his Internet home page was made inaccessible by the Germans banning a Canadian service provider from Germany. Someone, it seems, copied Zundel's writings onto a dozen American University sites.

WIESENTHAL: Enemy of free speech

Accessing University sites is one of the main attractions of being on the Internet and so there was no way that the German police (boo, hiss!) would get any application to shut out German access to the American Universities accepted. The result is a victory for free speech in Germany where patriots and people generally can now read Zundel's writings once again. In a separate unrelated incident, the owner of an American chain of radio stations airing the patriotic American dissident voices every week met with a delegation of Jewish citizens who were also asking for a ban on free speech by way of the owner pulling the plug on the radio show. Rather more bluntly, having heard them out, he told them to F O#*! Community ConneXion can be found at <http://www.c2.org/uncensored/>

BN CURRYWATCH

'Special Tonight Sir — Curry Dumping!'

Regular readers of Currywatch will be most interested to hear of the strange practice of curry dumping. The people who carry out this bizarre contribution to the British ethnic food experience are known as Curry Dumpers! Large quantities of curry are poured into British waterways to provide an interesting eating experience for Britain's fish and small marine life, as well the anglers who are obviously saved the onerous task of slogging it along to the nearest curry shop. Rumours of including rice in the dumping so as to provide a complete meal are as yet unconfirmed.

Nevertheless, the National River Authority were not amused at the practice and are to prosecute Indian food manufacturer, Noon products plc of Wellington Terrace, Bayswater in London. NRA officials discovered the curry dumped into Boundary Brook at Osterley Park in West London. Fish inspected had noticeably higher levels of cholesterol than is normal, which confirms what we've all suspected for years — eating curry makes you fat!

After just over a year bringing you the very best gastro-nomic delights and treats to be found anywhere in the world of curry and which started with underpants curry followed by the memorable slug and cobweb curry, our favourite curry watcher is retiring through ill health! And so sadly this is the last in the long line of BN Currywatch (all together now, ahh!)

Bon appetit!

WEST LONDON HOSTS YET ANOTHER FOREIGN WAR

The failure of the multi-racial experiment foisted upon Britain was again held out for all to see last month when 28-year old man, Harminder Singh Jhaghra from Southall died during clashes between at least twenty Asian men. The police to their credit managed to arrest nine men following the bitter fighting between Sikhs and Muslims in Hayes, Middlesex. Knives and wooden bats were recovered by the police who are treating the death as murder. In January, BN reported upon the importation into Enfield, with shots being fired, of the dispute between the Turks and Greeks over the ownership of Cyprus — a dispute that has nothing to do with us here in Britain. This latest incident merely highlights the failure of the whole ghastly experiment — something done totally without the consent of the British people.

ANOTHER MOSQUE TO OPEN SOON

THE LEABRIDGE MOSQUE IN LEYTON:
London's biggest mosque (until the next one)

London's largest mosque is less than a year to completion. Lucky Londoners living in Waltham Forest have less than a year before hearing the call to prayer issued from loudspeakers six times per day at up to 120 decibels! All the construction is complete, only interior decoration remains together with the installation of central heating and lighting. The Leabridge mosque close to the Baker's Arms will accommodate 5,000 worshippers.

REFUGEE NONSENSE

The Ethiopian Refugee Association has received another financial handout courtesy of the taxpayer. Visitors to London can testify to the huge rise of Ethiopian and Somali 'refugees' over recent years. There are 2,000 in Haringey and another 1,000 in neighbouring Enfield alone. The majority are single mothers and unaccompanied minors! No explanations are given as to how these minors managed to get into the UK. At the same time, it is revealed that the Joint Council for the Welfare of Immigrants encourages asylum seekers to pursue hopeless appeals which costs the taxpayer thousands to 'protect a client's status for a period, e.g. to complete a course of study.' That gem comes from the JCWI annual report. In another piece of craziness, Liaquat Ali who swindled £10,000 in DSS payments by faking illness has escaped gaol because the judge ruled he was too sick to be gaoled!

HOW DOES JASPER DO IT?

Last month, British Nationalist revealed that Lee Jasper, one of the main figures behind the demonstration that led to a riot in Brixton in December is an official of a group to get £214,000 from the National Lottery.

Black activist, Jasper is 'temporary co-ordinator' of the 1990 Trust, set up by the National Black Caucus and is to receive the cash. Why Britain's most radical black pressure group is to receive any money from the National Lottery at all is a mystery but it's certainly a disgrace.

Now it has emerged that from 1989, Jasper has been lecturing the police on race relations! The madness of this state of affairs is mindboggling. Unfortunately, in today's Britain it passes for the norm. The waste of taxpayers' money was highlighted when Jasper himself revealed that the police are charged £500 per day to listen to him.

It was Jasper who made the last "angry" speech minutes before rioting started. Shops were looted and burned, businesses destroyed and shots were fired.

LEE JASPER

First he gets an award from the National Lottery to advance Black causes, then he makes an "angry" speech minutes before rioting started in Brixton, while being a paid consultant to the police on race relations!

What the police thought they could learn from someone like Jasper is, like his Lottery windfall, another mystery. Is there something going on that we don't know about?

WEB MAG PLUGS BNP

The growing power of the Internet is causing more and more waves as the 'powers that be' begin to take notice and realise that organisations including the BNP are delivering their message direct to the people and by-passing the media stranglehold.

In this month's issue of The Web magazine, there is a survey of 'extremist' groups ranging from the avowedly nazi Aryan Nations to the Black Panthers and these were featured and discussed in shocked tones along with details of how to access hard-porn, and electronic murder and bomb making manuals. The brew was strengthened by the inclusion of Sinn Fein and the Animal Liberation Front.

Nevertheless, after the shock-horror tones of the introduction it became apparent that the 'powers that be' are at their wits end as to what to do about the more serious groups involved on the Internet. Mike Whine of the Board of Deputies of British Jews was whining (no pun intended) that the Net is allowing access to a huge new audience that may be 'impressionable' (read 'independently minded'). And he detailed the growing use of the Net by serious patriotic political parties, first mentioning Jörg Haider's Freedom Party in Austria which polled 22 per cent in December's General Election. In France, Le Pen worries them even more!

At last, Gareth Lofthouse, The Web's intrepid reporter got to the BNP! He said:

'Now there is every indication that UK extremists are following the Americans in progressing from Newsgroups to having their own smartly packaged Web sites. One example is the British National Party, which is now online with some of the most extensive material to be found at any extremist home page in the world.

The BNP site hides its spots by avoiding the more obvious statements of racial hatred made by some of the American hardcore groups. At the time of writing the front page featured a Christmas message sent 'to all supporters of free speech anywhere in the world'. The news stories and editorial are Nationalist in tone, but in contrast to sites like Aryan Nations the approach is likely to be much more persuasive. Quite what the BNP stands for is not made entirely clear in their Internet material. When asked directly if they are a racist organisation, spokesman, Mike Newland replied: "It depends what you mean by racist. Our definition of racism is that races are different and people want to live with people like themselves."

When asked what this means for non-white communities living in Britain, however, Newland made it quite clear what the BNP's ultimate objectives are. "We think in the long term they have a far better future living in their own countries" he told The Web. Hence their manifesto refers to the need for a 'massive programme of repatriation or resettlement of coloured immigrants.'

Continuing in the same vein, Lofthouse wrote on:

'Nevertheless, the BNP claim their movement is growing in strength, a contention that gains credence in the light of their success in winning their first council seat in Britain as recently as September 1993. They now hope to make new advances, partly through reaching a wider audience through the Internet.

"The interesting thing about our Web site" said Newland "is that we've had a home page for several months and, of course, people read it because it's been publicised in UK bulletins. That has obviously been having a good effect because we started getting a lot of student enquiries."

Concluding the article, which gave fair coverage to the party, The Web included a list of Net contacts which included that of the BNP.

This was a good article for the BNP, not withstanding being lumped in with a few oddballs, because the party had a chance to get its view across at some length and it is the sort of coverage that the party can expect more and more as it projects itself as a serious political party with sensible solutions to the country's ills. All in all, a very worthwhile read and plug for the party!

PSYCHO-KILLERS/PSYCHO-RAPISTS/PSYCHO-KILLERS/PSYCHO-RAPISTS/PSYCHO-KILLERS

The disturbing number of mental patients freed into the community to kill and rape continues unabated. The practice first gained prominence when freed mental patient Christopher Clunis went berserk with a knife and killed a perfect stranger.

Over the past month no less than four separate and shocking cases have come to court. In the first case, Ranjeet Matharu was released from a mental hospital after just five months psychiatric help following his killing of a woman. Upon his release, he kidnapped a teenage girl, forced her into his van and raped her despite her pleas for mercy. Her life has been destroyed.

In the second case, Nelson Anya a violent schizophrenic and ordered to be detained indefinitely in 1991 for GBH was released within a year. Upon his release, he sexually attacked two women aged 65 and 70 at their homes. These old ladies, wanting nothing more than to live out their days in peace have been utterly terrorised.

In the third case, Wayne Hutchinson a paranoid schizophrenic admitted to hospital after suffering delusions and hearing voices was released by accident. He went on to seriously wound four people and kill two others all in the Brixton area from where he grew up. He started by shooting a man through a window with a shotgun wounding him and then schizophrenic with a psychopathic personality disorder, first went to prison in 1984 when he was sixteen for raping two women. The 'Beast of killing a doorman at a night club by blasting him three times with the same weapon. Two days later, he ran amok and stabbed three people before killing Marie Hatton by stabbing her twice in the chest. Hutchinson got six life sentences for the rampage but will be considered for parole after 14 years. Marie Hatton's daughter Louise, 24, spoke for many when she said: "I hope he suffers."

The fourth case also involved a Brixton man, 27-year-old Glenn Grant. Grant, a sexual sadist and paranoid Belgravia' received ten years and told police: "They have everything. I have nothing. They are not so good now they have been raped." After completing his sentence, Grant was sent to a secure mental hospital. Against the advice of consultants, social workers and nursing staff hospital management decided to let him go. This was despite a doctor's report which stated that Grant 'talked about wanting to humiliate and rape middle-class white women and of having a mission to do so'. While on an outpatient scheme, Grant committed a series of violent burglaries and an armed robbery. Following his formal discharge from hospital, Grant committed rape just four days later, smashing his way into his victim's home beating her around the head and threatening her with a knife before raping her. She said afterwards: "My life has been destroyed. I believe he should never have been released from hospital. I have spent 90 minutes with him and I can see he is not sane. I cannot think how they thought he was fit to go out." Pluckily she added: "I want a husband and family one day and will not let him take that away from me. I will come out of my shell eventually." This time Grant got five life sentences, but he will still be considered for parole after just 14 years.

It is obvious from all this that lives are being destroyed by hospitals letting psychotic criminals out of mental institutions. Aside from the obvious racial connection with schizophrenia, there is the question of why these people are being let out in the first place. The answer, typically with the Tories, is money. The government doesn't have enough of it and it is cheaper to put these psychos back into the community than keep them securely locked up. Murder, armed robbery and rape are the consequences of Tory penny pinching.

TO THE POINT

I am a Labour voter with a child in a private school — and don't feel guilty but angry. I am a single parent and only 'chose' the extra burden of fees because I was desperate. My Conservative education authority had ignored our preference and assigned my daughter to a violent 'sink' school.

Should I have sent my bright, beloved daughter there, taught her karate and prayed? No way. If I must work myself into the ground to protect my child, I will.

Government talk of 'parental choice' and rising standards is a myth. The Tories have had 16 years to get it right, patently haven't and seem indifferent: their children mostly don't depend on state schools. But Labour's response to parents' fears is uninspired and dishonest. I do not feel a hypocrite for opting out because, unlike Tony Blair and Harriet Harman, I would not dream of defending Labour's tired old thinking on education.

Blair and Harman have personally defied party policy by sending their sons to grant-maintained and grammar schools, but refuse openly to challenge Labour's commitment to non-selective and completely state-controlled education.

I was most frightened by the school's social reputation. A horrified ex-teacher had described how eleven-year-old boys openly threatened in class to rape the girls. Two friends who chose the school, believing some middle-class socialists should, were now fighting to get their children out. One friend's daughter was totally friendless, isolated by her brains and gentle ways. The other's son was seriously ill but mocked, attacked and threatened with knives.

No one's child should have to go to a school that bad. But both parties share blame for the fact such schools exist. I would respect Blair and Harman if they admitted that they have fled their inner-city schools — run by labour authorities — because they're abysmal. Instead, they keep up a united front with Old Labour. Yes the Tories have failed children — but so have three decades of liberal domination of education, and union opposition to sacking lazy or incompetent teachers.

It's a sad reflection of our times that many Asian youths born and brought up in the UK are having to find it necessary to adopt a 'gangsta lifestyle'.

Many of our Asian youths are trying to act/dress/speak like Black youths... from America/Jamaica and find encouragement to do so by listening to rap/reggae/jungle music and aspiring to live with such an image — an image totally foreign to their own Asian culture. It's a sad state of affairs when Asians feel that it isn't 'trendy' to speak/dress like Asians and start to act/dress/speak like Black gangsters.

The image that they generally portray is one of a 'gangster' or 'hardman' — making out they come from a rough ghetto, when most of them actually come from comfortable homes in suburban Southall or Hounslow.

Most of these Asian wannabe gangsters aren't even tough — most of them have to hide behind their image of goatee beards, earrings and studded baseball caps.

KONDEMNATION KORNER

Professor Antony Flew & The Great 'Brains' Affair

'No one but the most infatuated bigot ever has believed that all blacks are genetically inferior to all whites. But it is a very different thing to maintain what is in fact the very well evidenced proposition that there is a substantial difference between the average IQs of blacks and whites. What it does do is to make it absolutely certain that, absent all racial discrimination whether negative or positive, blacks will be proportionately under-represented in some fields of activity and over-represented in others'.

Letter from Professor Antony Flew in the Sunday Telegraph - October 29 1995

The Commission for Racial Equality recently published an advertisement which has appeared in poster form on the London Underground, and the BNP wrote to the Advertising Standards Authority, to complain:-

Dear Sir,

We wish to make a complaint concerning the poster advertisement, which recently appeared on the London Underground, issued by the Commission for Racial Equality, and European Youth Campaign Against Racism. An example appears at Tottenham Court Road station.

The poster shows four drawings of human brains. Three are identical in size, and marked European, Asian, and African. The fourth brain is much smaller, and marked 'racist'.

The suggestion is clearly that those who express 'racist' opinions are stupid, and have a lower IQ than others. The suggestion is neither truthful nor honest.

Perhaps the best known 'racist' in Britain, Enoch Powell, obtained a professorship in his twenties.

The late Prime Minister Winston Churchill regarded immigration into Britain with "great trepidation." Clearly he would be regarded as a 'racist' by the advertisers for holding such views. Is he then to be designated as stupid or lacking in intelligence?

Professor Hans Eysenck, of London University, and Professor Antony Flew, of Reading University, are both well known for their public support for the proposition that races vary very significantly in intelligence. Such a suggestion would certainly be described as 'racist' by the advertisers. Are the former stupid men?

To suggest that those with 'racist' opinions have misassessed a complex picture would be perfectly proper content for an advertisement - being simply an opinion among others widely held. This advertisement goes far further.

It indicates, in fact, how close we now are in Britain to the position in Russia under communist rule, during which those who dared to display any difference of opinion with the official ideology were said to be either mentally sub-normal, or suffering from a diagnosable mental illness.

That variety of false reasoning is now displayed on our underground, using public money.

Yours faithfully etc.,

A reply was soon received from a Ms. Joyce Nwachukwu at the ASA rejecting the complaint.

Shortly afterwards the BNP was contacted by the London Evening Standard newspaper.

The Standard then got in touch with Professor Flew to ask him what he thought. He did not deny that he had said that races vary in IQ. The good professor was described, however, as appalled to find his publicly expressed views quoted by the BNP.

Herein lies the nub of our troubles in white countries — the racking fear of being associated with any practical challenge to the official myths which are used to prop up a failing society. In this case, the official myth that races are all the same. It is almost permissible to say that races are different in a theoretical context, provided that society in its practical functioning pretends otherwise.

Sooner or later this official myth will collapse — with or without the bullying and often threatening behaviour of the CRE — and it will then be hard to find anyone who will admit that they ever supported it!

That is the way the game is played.

Big Brother's blatant propaganda

Remember 'Big Brother'? He was the big boss in Orwell's nightmare communist state scenario Nineteen Eighty-Four — the all-powerful dictator who acted as the keeper of the people's conscience and told them what they should do and what they should think. Well, if you think 'Big Brother' was just a fictional character you'd better think again!

Something very like him was present last month on the bookshop shelves and news stands where newspapers and magazines are displayed.

Some readers may follow the hospital soap Casualty in which two of the staff, Ash (who is black) and Laura (who is white) fall in love and get married. This is par for the course on TV these days. Everyone ought to know that programme-makers and scriptwriters are desperately contriving to popularise race-mixing and racial intermarriage as a means of destroying white British society. This Casualty affair between the black and white couple is just one of many put on by the television brainwashers.

But last month the mass media (including the magazine trade, which is all part of the same propaganda industry as television, radio and the cinema) seemed especially keen to lay it on thick. Photos of Ash and Laura in marital bliss were everywhere. On the magazine shelves of one shop visited by one of our readers they occupied the front pages of four mags all placed in close proximity to each other. These were TV Quick, What's on TV, Radio Times (all television guides) and Woman, the women's weekly.

Could 'Big Brother' — even in the wildest imagination of his creator — have conveyed his message more blatantly?

This can be no coincidence. Big Brother is definitely at work. All four magazines pump out the same propaganda line:- race mixing is good, race mixing is normal. It isn't. It's sick, it's insidious, it's unnatural and it's poison.

THE BEGINNING OF RACIAL SEGREGATION IN SCHOOLS?

Moslem parents have won a victory against the liberal establishment's 'multi-faith' concept in religious education (RE). While this is certainly a victory for Islam, it is also a victory for white parents too, because what is sauce for the goose is also sauce for the gander.

In the 1970s the all-Christian approach to RE was replaced by teaching about all faiths and giving them equal weight and validity. The result is that many become confused and Moslem parents have done something about it.

In the Batley area of West Yorkshire, 1,500 pupils have been withdrawn from 40 schools and the withdrawal has spread to Dewsbury and Huddersfield — in schools which are heavily Moslem (up to 99 per cent), which also says a lot for how Britain is being swamped by immigrants. Under the 1988 Education Act, parents have the right to withdraw their children from religious and sex education classes.

Christians and the Department of Education maintain that even in schools which are predominantly Moslem, RE should remain mainly Christian. However, that doesn't stop Moslems boycotting RE classes and in a new move, Birchfield primary school in Aston, Birmingham has agreed with Moslems that children can have exclusively Moslem RE classes. The agreement has been worked so that Moslem children withdrawn from RE classes are then given a separate Moslem RE class for what is then, a free period thus neatly side stepping the law.

The Moslem parents have also won backing from Fred Naylor and the Parental Alliance for Choice in Education. Naylor said "The multi-faith approach is an attack on parental rights, and that's why I am so sympathetic to the Muslims for defying this, giving a lead which I hope Christians will take." In the meantime, non-Moslem children get the usual inferior multi-faith RE class.

This all places Education Secretary, Gillian Shephard in a spot. If she and the D of E act to stop it, that action will be taken as a signal for Moslems to increase their efforts to set up their own schools. If on the other hand, she doesn't, then the Birchfield model will spread and give rise to religious segregation.

Pending the removal of all the various immigrant communities here in Britain, segregation in schools would be a welcome interim measure. That being the case, British Nationalist can only applaud militant Moslems for their continuing efforts for exclusiveness!

BATH UNIVERSITY BANS FREEDOM OF SPEECH

The BNP was approached last month by Bath University's student magazine Spike.

The magazine asked for a short article on the BNP, which was supplied. Although a representative of the magazine said that they were happy with the article, and indeed asked for it to be extended, the magazine announced that it will not print it owing to 'union policy'.

The ban on the article results from a new and totalitarian policy which is spreading through the universities. Both freedom of speech, and any group upholding it, are now being banned from campuses on the grounds of a conflict with 'equal opportunities policy'.

At Glasgow University, recently, a left-wing group was banned for making free speech a central plank of its platform. As the BNP remarked, in its own banned article, the spirit of Orwell's 1984 is alive and well, and spreading through the universities.

The BNP is now the only bona fide political party in Britain — regularly fighting elections and taking its message to the public — which has a manifesto commitment to upholding freedom of speech.

YOUR LETTERS

Write to: The Editor, British Nationalist, PO Box 117, Welling, Kent DA16 3DW

Sir,
Our country claims to be a democracy, and our government claims to be democratic, but democracy requires that all adults, through the ballot box, shall have an equal say in what government the country shall have no matter whether their choice is a good one or a bad one.

Therefore, in a democracy, there should be no élite which decides how the electorate may or may not vote, and therefore no élite empowered to censor or distort information available to the electorate about any party, or the policies or views of any party which seeks to contest elections.

However, there most certainly is an élite which sets itself up to act in that capacity. This is the élite that controls the media. And the government which is happy to permit it to operate in this way must be seen as part of that élite. The party misrepresented in this way is the BNP. Thus the government's claim that Britain is a democracy is sheer hypocrisy. Through the Internet, we currently have a chance, for the first time, to put to the public the authentic, uncensored views and policies of the BNP on a mass scale and thus counteract the distorted view of the party with which the media has been deceiving the electorate hitherto. We must make the very best possible use of this opportunity.

Mr. R.D. Molesworth
Cheltenham

Sir,
I have just renewed my membership to the BNP and am writing to let you know that I like the look of the new membership card. The new card is much neater, more professional and altogether better looking than the rather drab card of old.

Mr. H.S. Hall,
Bury St. Edmonds, Suffolk

Sir,
Some time ago I received from you a magazine which appeared to have been opened and I suspected a lefty Post Office employee. I am still incensed over the matter and stronger in my views of the rights of the BNP which alone can save our country from the swarming hordes which would destroy it — not only it but all

93 per cent say 'hang them!'

A recent telephone poll, following the breaking of the IRA cease-fire and the London bombings, conducted by the Manchester Evening News showed 93 per cent in favour of the death penalty for terrorists.

Europe too. The White race has its right to survive and we need the BNP to speak and fight for it.

I am now eighty and not able to go out unless by car. I was when young a member of the Labour Party. Now it and the others I can only feel bitter hatred toward for their failure and treachery.

I have a small amount in the bank which I shall be leaving to the BNP as I am unable to help in any other way.

Mrs. D.M. Marwood
Renfrewshire

Sir,
I am fiercely patriotic. I believe that all of the wealth created by we Brits should be used to make we Brits safe, well educated, healthy and comfortably off. Only when all of these things are assured should any money at all be spent on foreign people either here or abroad. I resent bogus asylum seekers getting a single penny; I resent the hordes of workshy criminal elements we support in

BN BRIEFING

RUSTLING ON THE INTERNET

The power of the net as a propaganda medium outside the censure of the establishment media continues to send jitters down the backs of establishment flunkies.

Robin Gedy, a correspondent for the Sunday Telegraph painted a very lurid picture following the deaths of ten foreigners in a hostel in Lubeck, Germany: 'Neo-Nazis marching on the Internet.' Since then of course, police have charged a Lebanese immigrant with arson and murder. It turns out that not only was the story a piece of scare-mongering, but it was badly researched too. Gedy described Phil Zimmerman, the Jewish libertarian and author of the Pretty Good Privacy encryption programme as an American neo-Nazi. The Sunday Telegraph and Gedy can count themselves lucky if Zimmerman doesn't sue!

BUSINESS OPPORTUNITY

Illegal immigrants and bogus 'asylum seekers' in Germany and Belgium are being more energetically returned than anywhere else in Europe. These governments are contracting private security firms to escort the unwanted foreigners back to their home countries.

Europe currently sends back between 200,000 and 300,000 'refugees' each year. Belgium is a shining example of dealing with the problem, turning down 12,553 of their 13,948 applications last year or 90 per cent of them. Britain in contrast effectively lets 95 per cent stay, since by the time a 'refugee' is found to be bogus, the 'refugee' either cannot be traced or has married with children in British schools etc.

In Germany, Manager Travel Service is contracted to send back 12,000 'refugees' each year and in Belgium, Budd is the firm most favoured to 'send them back'. Another firm from Belgium, Sias charges £1,800 per person for a 'comfortable return' to their homeland.

Clearly there is money to be made from sending these unwelcome visitors back to their home countries. Perhaps now there is a profit motive something will be done? In any case, aspiring nationalist entrepreneurs who want to 'send them back' can now seek to win contracts from the Home Office and make a profit at the same time.

this country; I resent our lives being changed to suit 'Europe'.

We British are swindled of millions of pounds every year. Our money goes to corrupt politicians, immigrant groups, and billions to the bottomless pit of the EU. We need years of BNP policies — to get us out of the EU, cut foreign aid, stop immigration, put layabouts to work, restore a healthy morality. The end result, Britain for the British!

Sir,
I wish the front page of February's BN could be seen and read by every genuine British person.

It shows what Britain has become, and also the silence of the media as to what is really happening in Britain today. Well done again BN.

SPREADING THE WORD

British National Party Handbook on PROPAGANDA

SPREADING THE WORD is a handbook on propaganda that has just been produced by the British National Party to supplement its Activists' Handbook, published last year. Spreading the Word is illustrated and runs to 60 pages. It contains five sections, namely: (1) General Principles of Propaganda; (2) Recruitment; (3) Canvassing for Elections; (4) Speaking to the Media; and (5) Speaking from the Platform and Presentation of Party Meetings.

This handbook devotes special attention to familiar enemy smears against the BNP and nationalists generally, advising the reader on the best techniques for dealing with these, whether they be raised in the process of trying to recruit new members, when canvassing voters on the doorstep or when taking part in interviews with the press, radio or television. The handbook is a mine of information on every problem involved in spreading the nationalist message and winning support for the BNP. It costs £1.50 plus 36p p&p.

Why Britain detests the Tories

Former Conservative Party Treasurer Lord Mollathorne recently said that it would be a good thing if the Tories had the next general election. This is a complete lie. The Tories are so corrupt and so dishonest that they are unworthy of office. They are a disgrace to the British people and their country.

The Tories are a corrupt and dishonest party who are unworthy of office. They are a disgrace to the British people and their country. They are a disgrace to the British people and their country. They are a disgrace to the British people and their country.

HANG CHILD MURDERERS!

The vast majority of people agree that the death penalty should be reintroduced for child killers. Yet neither Conservatives, Labour nor Liberal Democrats are prepared to back such a measure into law. Parliament is supposed to represent the people. But the so-called who sit in Government are more concerned with the rights of murderers than with the safety of our children. Sick child killers are kept in prison, often in relative luxury and at vast expense, until such time as they are released to kill again. Others such as Ian Brady and Myra Hindley are a constant reminder to the tragic parents of their victims. At those like Brady and Hindley, gave up the right to live the moment they took a young life. With more and more of these cases occurring it is time for the death penalty to be reintroduced. A country which allows the killers of its children to live is morally bankrupt. Only the British National Party is committed to the reintroduction of the death penalty for child killers.

RACE FOR THE REPUBLICAN PRESIDENTIAL NOMINATION

For the first time in decades, there is no clear front runner for the Republican nomination leading to the US Presidential elections this November and the Republicans are badly split. In contrast, President Clinton has already won the Democratic nomination practically unopposed.

This is a startling development because the Republican party establishment has actively campaigned for their first choice, Bob Dole in every single primary and have been rebuffed by the voters time and time again. That is why this years race is so interesting. The three contenders are: Bob Dole the Republican party establishment's favourite, Steve Forbes contending for the same 'moderate' vote and Pat Buchanan the overtly nationalist TV pundit.

Bob Dole has the look of a tired old man about him. He has no new ideas, no spark about him. His main message seems to be that he should be the Republican Presidential candidate because it's his turn! Steve Forbes on the other hand looks like a more lively version of Bob Dole and has hung on doggedly in the race. But it is Pat Buchanan who is the real live wire in this campaign. Engaging and charismatic, his rallies are well attended and noisy affairs, unlike Dole's. Buchanan also has the backing of the Christian coalition and the gun lobby but he also attracts teachers, teenage girls and workers who don't like GATT and NAFTA, the two agreements wrecking the US economy. He is a visionary and strangely reminiscent of Bobby Kennedy. He is also acutely aware of the harm done to American interests by its slavish obedience to the American Jewish lobby and has said so on several occasions.

That Steve Forbes is still in the race is a serious setback for Bob Dole because it leaves the field still cluttered. Dole spent a lot of money in the early rounds hoping for quick knockout victories. The victories didn't come and Dole has now spent £20 million of the £24 million he is allowed to spend by law. That is a big drawback for Dole because the big primary rounds are still ahead. Likewise, Steve Forbes, the multi-millionaire has spent £15 million of his own money, much of it in Arizona which he won ahead of Dole. Buchanan on the other hand is running a cheap campaign and since his win in New Hampshire has been raising $100,000 per day, possibly for a big advertising snuff in the run up to the big primaries.

PAT BUCHANAN
Nationalist contender for the Republican nomination for the White House

So far, honours are about even. Dole has won North and South Dakota plus Iowa; Forbes has won Delaware and Arizona while Buchanan has won Louisiana and New Hampshire.

It has to be said that Buchanan is unlikely to win, although it is still possible. More likely is that he would offer to support either Dole or Forbes in exchange for political concessions. Though even if he were to win, given that America is so far gone, what an overtly Nationalist US President could actually do on the US domestic scene is unclear. Would 'his' party support him? It's certainly going to be an interesting race ahead.

Results so far:-

Buchanan: Louisiana & New Hampshire

Dole: North Dakota, South Dakota & Iowa

Forbes: Arizona & Delaware

INDIA AND PAKISTAN DEPLOY NUKES

Both India and Pakistan are deploying nuclear weapons against each other. The two nations which have fought each other twice in the past are both deploying missiles capable of striking deep into each others territory. The latest twist in the arms race spiral was supplied by India which has successfully tested its Prithvi missile with a range of between 150 and 200 miles with a further missile under development having a range of 1,500 miles.

Farrakhan gets $1 billion from Gaddafi

Shock waves reverberated around Washington DC following Libyan leader, Colonel Gaddafi's shock $1 billion gift to the fiery Black Moslem separatist leader, Louis Farrakhan. Farrakhan has long been regarded as the leader of American blacks, but it was only last year with his million man march, which attracted the nonetheless impressive total of 400,000 people that he was accepted as so by mainstream America. Previously, black leaders demanded more integration. Farrakhan is different and recognises that whites and blacks living together is a hopeless cause. Farrakhan wants separation. It is this nationalist agenda — he wants five good states in the American south for Blacks only — that sets him apart and why white liberal establishment America doesn't like him. He has also offended the powerful Jewish lobby on numerous occasions calling them "bloodsuckers" and their religion as a "gutter religion," as well as calling Hitler "a great man."

Previously, Jews have been at the centre of the civil rights movement but no longer. What alarms both Jewish and liberal white America is the huge war chest he now has at his disposal. In a land where lobbies buy politicians routinely, Farrakhan now has a powerful card to play — money and lots of it.

Race has always lurked close to the surface of American politics. Now that Farrakhan has the money, it could well be the case that liberal America will be caught in a pincer movement between white nationalists on the one hand and black separatists on the other.

FOR 1996 — JOIN THE PARTY!

This year will probably be the last full year before the next General Election. Do what you can to help the party carry on the fight against our nation's enemies and join up!

Rates are the same as last year: £20 a year with a 50 per cent discount available for OAPs, full-time students and the unemployed.

All current member's subscriptions were due for renewal as from the 1st of January. Don't delay, send off today!

Every member's dues goes towards maintaining the party's infrastructure, keeping it functioning and making it more effective.

Membership of the BNP costs 5.47 pence a day — 2.74 pence if you are unemployed or retired. Is that too much to spend for a future?

The BNP is leading the fight for the British way of life, and showing the British people that one party does speak for them — the British National Party!

At the next General Election, the BNP will attract more votes than ever before and recruit more new members than ever before, making the BNP stronger than ever before! Do what you can to make that happen.

Join the party, build the victory!

LEICESTER BNP SMASHES CITY NEWS BLACKOUT

Leicester BNP Smashed the city's media imposed news blackout on the party with a boldly conceived counter-demonstration against the pro-IRA 'Troops Out' march and rally in the city on Saturday, 27th January 1996.

Local media have blacked the party for a good long while, so one of the aims was to get the BNP in the public eye right from the start of the year, and this was successfully achieved when two local newspapers published reports that Leicester City Council, which had given permission to 'Troops Out' to assemble for a rally calling for the withdrawal of British Troops from Northern Ireland, had refused permission to the party to assemble nearby for the purpose of holding a perfectly normal counter-demo.

Our opposition to 'Troops Out', Sinn Fein and the IRA is based on our firm commitment to the British people of Ulster and our determination that Northern Ireland should remain British.

During the week prior to the 1996 Bloody Sunday march and rally, rumours were flying around that there would be attempts to disrupt the march. It was undoubtedly as a result of such rumours that the police called in the Tactical Firearms Unit! How do we know? Because the car in which BNP East Midlands regional organiser, John Peacock was a passenger was stopped on the road by the police.

BNP told: 'You can't meet here'

RACISTS have been told they can't hold a counter-demonstration this weekend opposing the withdrawal of troops from Northern Ireland.

The British National Party hoped to gather in Victoria Park on Saturday demonstrating at the Bloody Sunday Rally, organised by Troops Out.

by ABBY WORSNIP

But Leicester City Council has said it will not permit the BNP gathering because of updated race relations policies.

The move has been welcomed by Troops Out which says it doesn't want any confrontation.

Though a spokesman warned: "I'm not sure whether the BNP will stay away."

But the decision has been slammed by the BNP for being unfair.

John Peacock, the party's East Midlands organiser, said: "This refusal is a complete reversal of the city council's decision during 1995 when it gave its permission for the BNP to assemble on Castle Hill Park."

However the council says permission was mistakenly given for the rally in May 1995.

Maheeb Ladhia, manager of the council's corporate equalities team, said: "This shouldn't have been allowed and it had gone through by the time I found out about it."

"We have since taken the opportunity to update the policy."

Now directors of council departments have to make group decisions on demonstrations after a paper was passed last September.

It states certain racist and fascist organisations should not be allowed to use council facilities because of a threat of public disorder.

Mr Ladhia said: "There is no way we can manage situations like these without other groups going and challenging them."

"We look at counter-demonstrations with trepidation."

"These gatherings involve large police operations and the people of Leicester pay heavily through the nose in terms of police cover."

"We took the report to the head of the legal services and asked them why local people should have to do this."

LEICESTER BNP GETS IN THE NEWS

On the continent of Europe, where it is normal for police to carry firearms, this would not be a surprise, but here in freedom-loving Britain it is something relatively new to be followed by armed police and ordered out of the car with hands above heads and subjected to the humiliation of being searched by the TFU as in some kind of American-style action movie, while the real villains get away with murder and treachery.

It is possible that officers responsible for planning operations on the day grew bored and wanted to add a little excitement to their lives. Whatever the reason, it was clearly an infringement of our member's civil rights who were there for what would have been a perfectly lawful activity. Another indictment of today's rotten Britain — but another plug for the BNP!

MIDLANDER

DAY OF ACTION STARTS BOURNMOUTH ELECTION DRIVE

A strong team of BNP activists turned out to promote the party in Bournemouth last month. The local unit, backed up by Hants, Dorset & Berks regions formally opened the BNP's election drive there.

The day started with a public show of strength in the town centre. British Nationalist was sold, the flag was flown and leaflets calling for child murderers to be executed were distributed.

The team then conducted a mass leafletting drive, reaching over 1,000 households. The leaflets highlighted Britain's collapse of law and order, denounced the incompetence of the Tories and gave the BNP as the only hope.

In the evening a branch meeting was held addressed by North London regional organiser, Dave Bruce. Mr.

Bruce emphasised the fact that without finance, the party's quest for political power in Britain, without which nothing can be done to save our country, would at this 11th hour come to naught.

His audience rose to the challenge and raised more than £400!

Bournemouth BNP is one of many units across Britain that is coming to life under able and energetic new leadership. BN congratulates the unit on the progress it has made. Well done!

BRISTOL, AVON AND SOMERSET CONTINUE EXCELLENT WORK

The very keen and ably led Bristol, Avon and Somerset branch continued with its good work with a recent day of action supported by a few friends and comrades from London who enjoyed the activity as a day out.

The day started with a paper sale followed by a big leaflet drive in a very favourable area for the party and where a lot of support was shown. Bristol is one of the areas where the party will be fielding candidates at the next election and already, the party is finding a warm welcome from local people.

The day was rounded off by a branch meeting in the evening addressed by Dr. Stevens who gave a very interesting and educational talk on the subject of General Gordon of China and Khartoum fame. Nearly forty party members and supporters heard the address and afterwards were able to relax, chat and enjoy a pleasant atmosphere with friends having raised £120 for the coming General Election fund.

BNP RESPOND TO IRA BOMB

The IRA bomb on the Isle of Dogs that shattered the cease-fire at 7.01 p.m. on a Friday night and plunged the peace process into crisis provoked an immediate response from the BNP. Telephone calls between BNP organisers on the night and a foot reconnaissance to determine at first hand the scope of damage led to a decision to draft a new leaflet specifically covering the IRA bombing of the Isle of Dogs and to leaflet the affected areas all on the same weekend!

While the following day, Saturday, was used to produce the leaflet and call out activists, it was the Sunday that the leaflet went out all over the north of the Island. The leafleting operation saw over 1,500 leaflets put out covering the entire residential section in the north of Millwall ward.

A very good active turnout of twenty-eight was achieved for the activity on just one days notice and with several tube/train lines out of commission for engineering/repair work which prevented a number of activists from making the activity.

For our part, party activists were able to see at first hand both the devastation to the office complexes, best seen from the top of a tower block that the party leafleted on the Barkantine estate and also the damage done to the homes of ordinary people that was almost totally ignored by the media looking for the big story

Smash the IRA!

Since 1969, the IRA has murdered over 2,000 people and maimed thousands more in its cowardly attacks to 'free' Ireland. In fact, they represent just 4% of folk in Ulster — the majority wish to remain British.

In Britain, the Tory, Labour and Liberal Democrats have bent over backwards to appease the sick, sadistic monsters of the IRA — peace at any price. The events of Friday evening when the IRA called off their ceasefire and detonated a massive bomb on the Isle of Dogs have shown that appeasement to have been both reckless and foolish. East Enders have been injured because of Government incompetence.

Of all the political parties, only one party has been consistent in its solution to the problem of the IRA. The British National Party says that the death penalty should be reintroduced for terrorists. The British National Party says Wipe them out! Yet neither Conservatives, Labour nor Liberal Democrats are prepared to back such a measure into law. Only the BNP is committed to the reintroduction of the death penalty for IRA killers.

IRA aftermath: two dead and hundreds injured. The devastation seen by BNP activists was widespread in both residential and commercial areas. This photo was taken by local organiser, Dave King.

on Canary Wharf.

Low rise blocks of flats to the side of the Barkantine estate particularly had extensive window damage. Boards covered the windows, glass lay everywhere, police were in evidence and areas were taped off as dangerous because of the possibility of falling glass.

Islanders on both the Barkantine and the Wharf Ferry estates expressed appreciation that the party was out on the Island expressing solidarity and calling for the reintroduction of the death penalty for terrorist murderers. In contrast, it took several more days before government representatives got into the area to talk to local people.

Overall, the activity was an outstanding success and proof of what can be done with a little local initiative, effort and enthusiasm. The quick response of the activity based on excellent local initiative is especially pleasing. Well done everybody concerned!

What we stand for

- The establishment of a government of national unity that will put an end to nationally divisive party warfare; the return of leadership and statesmanship to British affairs.
- An end to immigration and a start to repatriation.
- British withdrawal from the European Community: trade with Europe where it suits us but no political ties.
- The disbanding of the multi-racial Commonwealth and its replacement by a new Commonwealth of self-governing white states.
- British ownership and control of British industry and resources.
- Protection of British industry by the selective exclusion of foreign manufactured goods from the British market.
- An end to the financial swindle that causes inflation and slump, and its replacement by a sane and fair financial system that will give the people the purchasing power to buy the goods they produce.
- The subordination of the power of the City to the power of Government, and the harnessing of the City to the needs of British industry.
- The regeneration of British farming, with the object of achieving the maximum self-sufficiency in food; also the restoration of the fishing industry by protection of our traditional fishing grounds.
- A healthy environment for a healthy people — the protection of our countryside and an end to the architectural disfigurement of our towns and cities.
- Tougher treatment of criminals, including the return of the death penalty.
- A return to traditional methods of education, with stronger discipline in the classroom and the sacking of 'trendy' teachers.
- An alternative defence strategy: withdrawal from NATO; closure of all foreign military and air bases in Britain; British withdrawal from the war in former Yugoslavia, where no British interest is at stake; the bringing home of British forces from Germany; the strengthening of Britain's defences and a position of armed neutrality.
- An end to overseas aid and the allocation of the money saved to the financing of repatriation and greater help for the needy at home.
- The crushing of the IRA, and the termination of the Anglo-Irish agreement and firm support for the loyalist majority in Northern Ireland.
- A return to healthy moral values aimed at strengthening the family and community.
